wake forest — 1970 —
seeking relevance —
trapped by restriction, striving for emergence —
bound by tradition,
stifled by rain,

and forever —
the silence of symmetry.

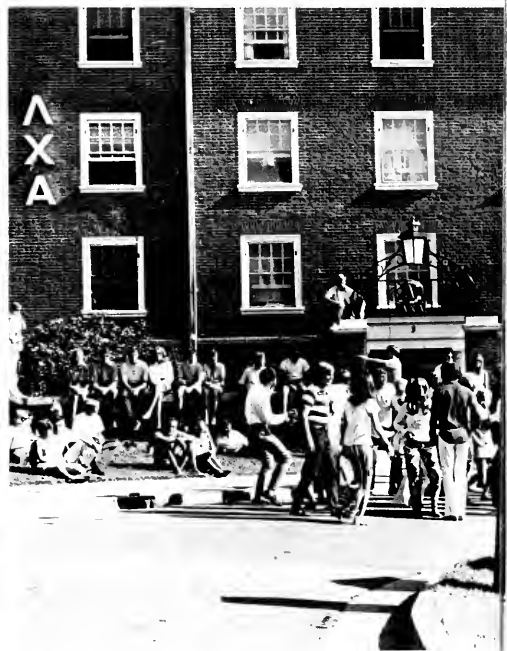

classics IV

it is a new day . . .
a different day . . .
a new time . . .
a different time . . .
ready to begin anew . . .
looking upward for new horizons . . .
sure to find them, so i've been told . . .
longing to know, but not always knowing
why . . .
back again as before and then . . .
a new day . . .
another day . . .
a new time . . .
but, it's only time . . .

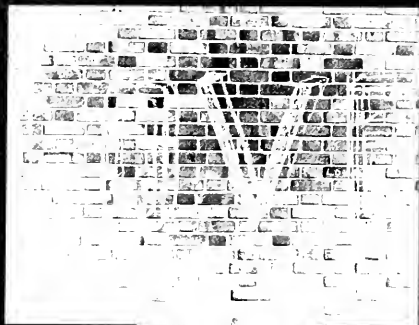

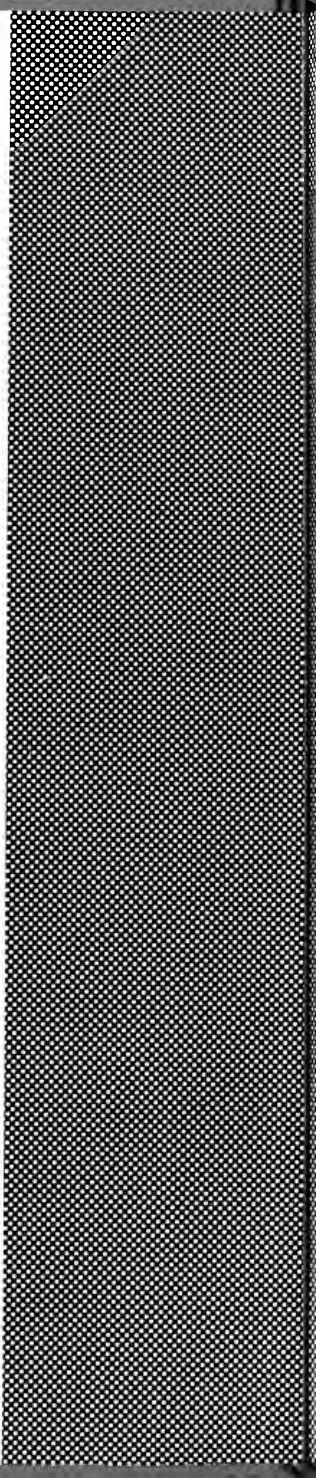

just how close is the war to me?
should i remain silent or participate?
if i marched, would it make any difference?
i write love, but do i know it?
i want peace, but must i fight for it?
if i work for a moratorium . . .
after the delay . . .
what then?

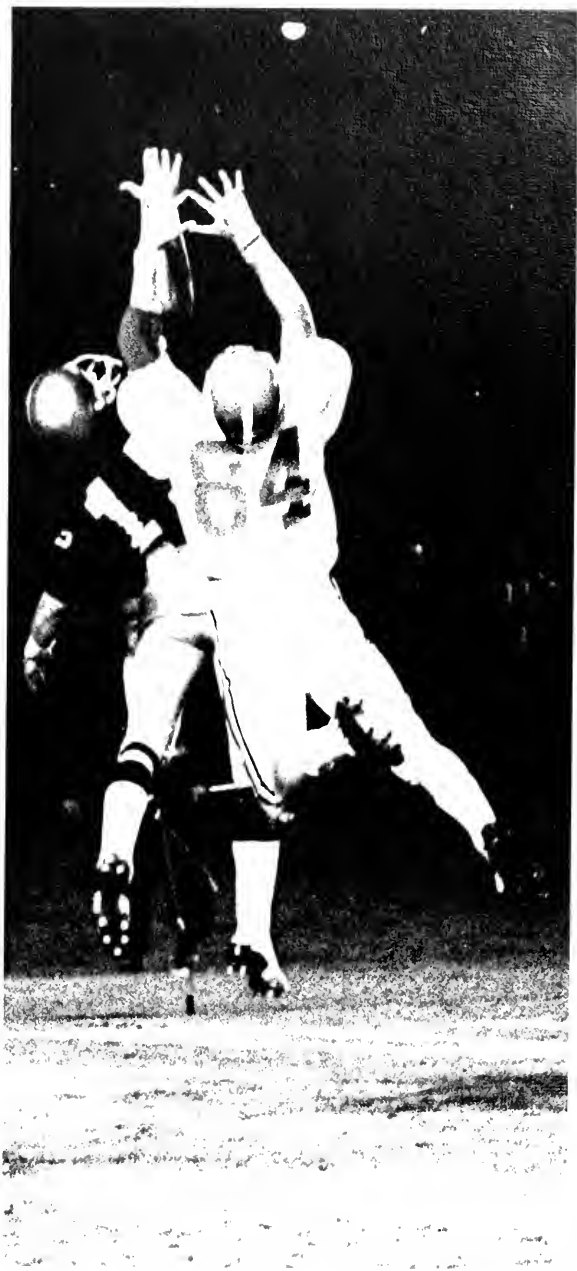

i should be learning to live—not only learning to,
but really living,
hell, if i were to settle for less than life now,
what will i have when i am old?
but what do i do here?
. . . close myself up in a room?
. . . hide my identity in a crowd?
. . . divorce myself from life?
why?
. . . just so i can regurgitate bull with eloquence?
the taste is bitter,
the feeling, one of deceit.
but, maybe . . .
maybe i am learning something . . .
maybe i'm learning to decide for myself what is important
. . . and what is not.
dear mother —
dear father —
dear establishment:
i will choose for myself, though others try to choose
for me . . .
i will live . . .
you may spit on me,
yet, i must be honest with myself . . .
i want to be me.

what kind of season produces a 3-7 record?

. . . forecasts predicted hazards;
the second division.

what could be expected?
a new coach, a new system,
a new quarterback,
an experienced defense,
the triple option.

one forecaster said:
"no depth, no passer,
no defense, no hope.""

wake and state at night in raleigh.
frustration through first half—everything failed . . .

except a cool coach,
who abandoned the
vaunted wishbone:

down 21 to 7.
a fleet backfield runs . . . 21-14.

three minutes to go . . .

a clutch run by leavitt . . .

bowden scores:
pandemonium . . . 21-20.

try for a 2-point conversion?

unbelievable—we win 22-21.

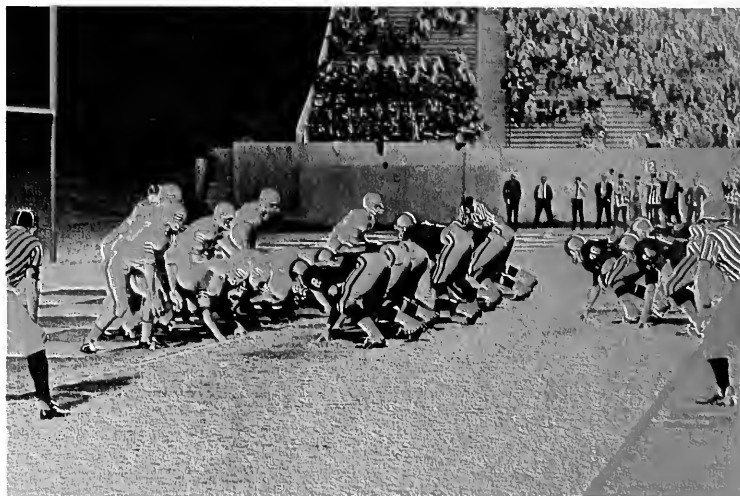

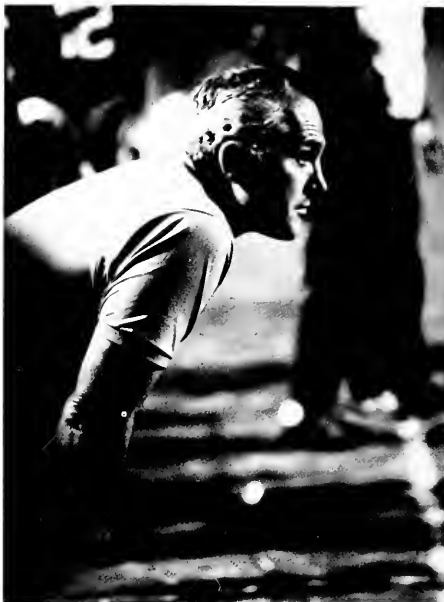

are we better than we thought?

auburn, a national power.

they contained us,

outclassed us . . .

fifty-seven-zip.

back at home, virginia tech;
 . . . another courageous effort.
 the never-say-die deacons, down 10-3 at half,
 another comeback.
 a fumble recovered . . .
 a pass intercepted . . .
 wake scores,
 then a sustained drive for a 16-10 lead.
 wake offense runs out the clock.
 headlines next day:
 "true, deacons are for real!"

university of maryland . . .
 a team due for a victory;
 we were down, overconfident.

wake found an opponent
 who threw no passes;
 they stopped our aerial game.
 running game worked well;
 but, wake ran out of time.

 a field goal . . . 27-13.

clemson fumbles . . . 7-7.

clemson scores twice; 28-14.

wake, 2-4 . . . could we win again?
we always beat carolina,
. . . not this time.
wake scores early . . . 3-0,
then dies.
mccauley runs kickoff 97 yards, carolina, 7-3.
mccauley scores again,
three tar heel field goals . . .
it was humiliating . . . 23-3.
they wanted to win; did we?

all seemed lost . . .
but, wake didn't give up.
for once, someone else got the bad break—
virginia.
down 14-0, we fought back.

coach jack mccloskey

the "year of the deacon" had finally arrived, after an inspiring 18-9 record last season, all but one starter returning, and several good freshmen joining the varsity squad, prospects were indeed good for what many called the best wake forest basketball team since '62. unfortunately for the deacon faithful, it was also the year of the acc. with the likes of second ranked south carolina, a vastly improved state quintet, a tough duke five, the always-fierce tar heels, and the dark horse threat of maryland, the "best team since '62" was denied its year of glory. the deacs had, from the start of the season, been plagued with ill fortune—chiefly the loss of all-american artis gilmore due to a questionable acc ruling, and the loss of john orenczak because of injury. luck, however, does not make or break a ball club, and the deacs proved, in an explosive manner, that they were definitely a force to be reckoned with. there were many great moments— notably the tremendous wins over davidson and arch-rival carolina. the all-out efforts of every team member and the continuously spectacular performance of charlie davis produced the most exciting deacon squad in years, and certainly a team to be proud of.

basketball

wake opened the season against a strong ohio state five, losing by the narrow margin of 96-92 to the powerful buckeyes. the next four games wake gained momentum by successively edging auburn, appalachian, a much improved maryland team under the leadership of lefty drisell, and the stubborn east carolina pirates. the next game, a non-conference battle against duke, ended in a 98-90 overtime win with the blue devils eeking out their victory in the final minutes, despite a brilliant team effort by wake.

the quaker city tourney during christmas break found wake outmatched by powerful columbia in the first round.

the remaining two games, however, resulted in big wins over connecticut, and brigham young, netting the deacs a fifth place finish.

at home again,

wake registered a hard fought victory over stubborn virginia, then dropped the next three games straight—a disappointing loss to maryland, a last second loss to state due to the thievery of guard ed leftwich, and a heart-breaking overtime victory by the blue devils.

the next five games

will be remembered by deacon fans, beginning with a pull-away victory over the hard-luck cavaliers—walker scoring a game high of 41 points.

the next contest,

a january 17 meeting between wake and carolina at carmichael auditorium in chapel hill, resulted in a 91-90 upset victory over the nationally ranked heels, a jubilant wake forest student body, and the wildest campus “rolling” in years.

over semester break,
the davidson wildcats invaded memorial coliseum.
the top ten rated wildcats could not contain the explosive deacon attack led by charlie davis with 28 points, davidson finally yielding 74-73.
next, revenge-seeking carolina traveled to winston,
looking for blood.

a sellout crowd of 8600 screaming fans watched a shoot-out between carolina's charlie scott and our own c. d.
scott and company were gunned down in an 88-85 victory with davis hitting for 41 points.

the deacs had done it again.

riding close on the heels of wake's sensational victories over three nationally ranked teams was the number one question on everyone's mind—would the '69-'70 deacs repeat the pattern of the '62 club?

was a post season tourney in sight at last?

wake's fifth consecutive victory came at the expense of hapless florida southern,

with davis on the bench recovering from an ankle injury and the threesome of walker, mcgreggor, and leukowicz leading the attack.

the ultimate test came on a monday night with the deacs traveling to columbia, s. c.

the second ranked gamecocks demolished wake with ruthless precision—the deacs never being able to put together a semblance of an offense.

a home battle with duke followed on wednesday night with the still-shaken deacons unable to stay out of foul trouble.

duke's win was the third straight in three meetings.

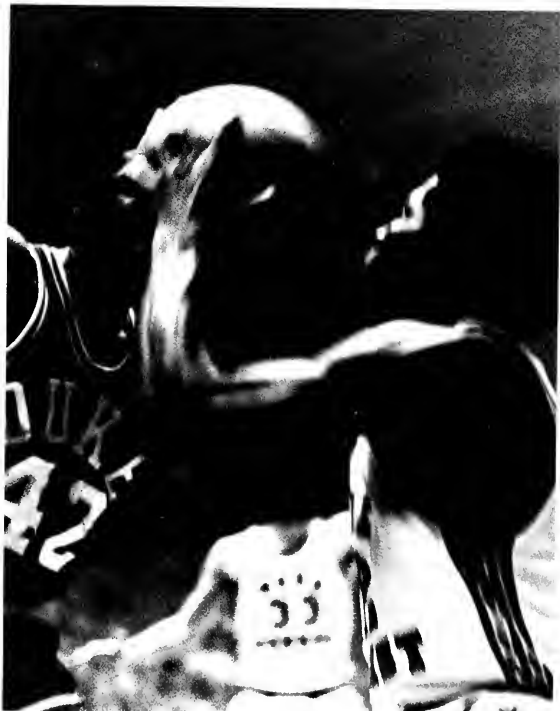

inclement weather complicated matters for the deacs who arrived late for the game with va. tech at blacksburg. the gobblers, always tough at home, demolished wake 94-78 with the deacons having, perhaps, their worst game of the season. the week had been disasterous for the deacons. three straight losses to south carolina, duke, and va. tech. clemson, however, proved to be the spell-breaker with wake posting an impressive 97-71 win—walker and davis scoring 26 points each.

february 21 -
 the deacs traveled to raleigh in hopes of avenging an earlier loss to state's wolfpack,
 number two in the conference.
 although wake held a slight lead throughout the first half and part of the second, the brilliant plays of coder and welliford broke open the game.
 not even davis' 42 points could halt the state onslaught.
 wolfpack's 19th win - 104-86.
 expected to be routed early,
 the deacons played on even terms with the south carolina gamecocks until the last six minutes - another loss, 67-51.
 hitting only 32.8% of their floor shots, the deacs stayed close until mcguire advised his team to stall - wake forest's 11th loss in 24 games.
 the last game of the regular season against hapless clemson - a sure win -
 but the second half proved disastrous.
 the tigers stormed back from a 13 point halftime deficit to a strong 105-95 win, despite all-american charlie davis' 38 points.

basketball

wake finished
with a disappointing 13-12 record, but the long season had it's excitement:
charlie davis repeating as an all-a.c.c. guard
and named to all-american teams;
the big wins - north carolina and davidson;
and the performance of seniors dickie walker, dan ackley, and larry habegger.
finishing 5th in the conference, the deacons looked forward to the "second season" -
the a.c.c. tourney at charlotte.

organize, organize . . .
obligated to the opportunity for involvement, opportunity by definition,
awareness through participation,
total education,
ever the objective . . .
ever the future.
always trying to pull in the same direction,
the surge of excitement
as rhythm is established.
the nights, weeks, and discussions wear on,
and i begin to get weary . . .
weary of all the uncertainties,
the details,
the philosophical questions,
and the damning misinterpretations.
another conference to plan, appropriation to decide,
band to book,
meeting to attend.
wondering if it is all worth it, knowing it is . . .
for me,
my friends,
and the future of wake forest.

a.c.c. tournament

the a.c.c. tournament—the “second season”; a three day circus in charlotte; a second chance for all teams, who started on equal terms. south carolina predicted to win with their 14-0 conference record—state took advantage of it, upsetting the gamecocks. wake had to play fourth place duke for the fourth time. breaking a three game losing streak to duke, wake upset the n.i.t. bound blue devils, 81-73, with the help of all-tourney selection charlie davis in other first round action: virginia upset optimistic north carolina, 95-93;

north carolina state defeated the fine maryland team, 67-57; south carolina squeaked by clemson in the last minute, 34-33, to prevent a humiliating upset.
in friday's action
wake fell behind south carolina in the first half, 36-27, and never seriously threatened the gamecock lead.
despite davis' 31 points,
the demon deacons lost 79-63,
the close of their season—14 wins in 27 games.
this proved to be the gamecocks'
last win of the season . . .
in the finals saturday night—
n. c. state,
confident after a close win over
virginia,
67-66,
upset south carolina
in two overtimes, 42-39.
mcguire's season was over—no championship . . .
just bitterness.
instead,
an unexpected state team had gained a berth in the eastern regionals.
nothing is a surprise in the a.c.c.

covenant community

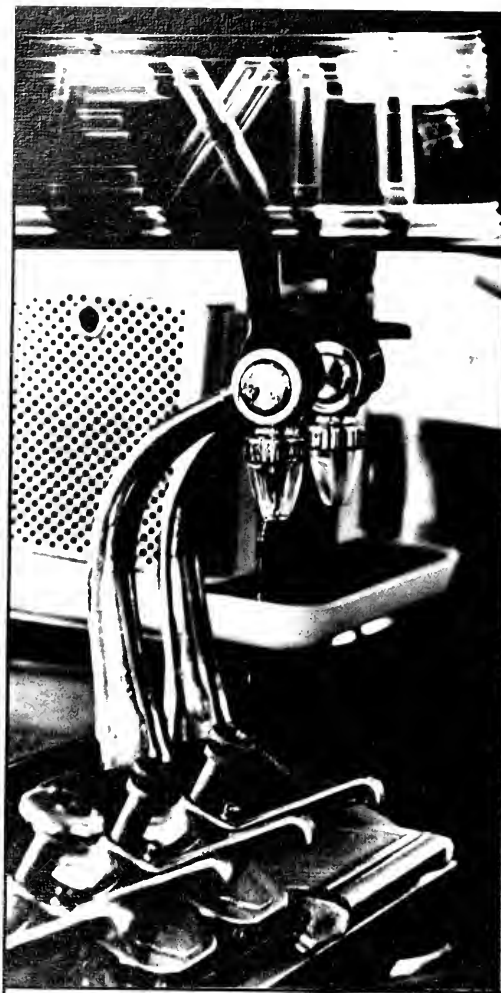

stringfellow

i remember . . .
dust and scribbles,
scrubbing and paint,
and goodwill to the rescue
to make an aging house
our home.
hesitant knockings
from curious neighbors,
untutored acceptance,
"those hippies down the street," meaning us, of course,
a branch from wake forest.
sunday suppers—community
style,
turkey and talking,
projects,
an occasional prank,
our different directions
converge,
a center of gravitation.
afternoons and after,
children fill the house
squeals and charades,
construction paper
and a glimmering
consciousness,
"what can we really do?"
our shared acknowledgement of diversity,
our knowledge of gaps
within and without
our self-created living experience.
no promises,
no guarantees,
only an attempt
to bridge
"me" and "you,"
"us" and "them," today
and the next tomorrow.

i've been waiting for the sun

i am a learner . . .
you, a teacher . . .
but—can't we be both?
can't we break down some of the barriers?
i can read your books,
but you are often the only model i have for what i am striving to be.
show me how to live with knowledge,
i look to see strength of purpose and dedication.
give me that—
. . . and your task is done:
the responsibility becomes mine.
knowledge finds meaning through interpretation,

the desire to learn is interest.

educational practice is artifact.

study is experience.

Old Gold & Black

old gold and black . . .
 the mood is "gray" but not sober.
 old gold and black . . .
 over-worked, understaffed, individuals who search and write and work all week.
 personalities in weekly
 all-night sessions
 in constant overtones
 of shouting and swearing, and undertones of typing . . .
 senseless games, stale coffee and cigarettes.
 gray, barry, dianne. dedication.

the staff—the microcosm.
boiling with frenzied activity, raucous hilarity, swirling smoke, flaring tempers, foul language . . .
and when the pressure becomes unbearable—an elimination card

People run, sleep,
play, get married,
work, worry, do the
boogaloo, putt,
putter, pitch, have kids, loaf, visit Aunt Harriet, go to meeting,
keep warm,
dry, cool, live it up,
slim down, show off
and just generally have the time of their lives
in products we make.

A high-contrast, grainy black and white image. In the center, a bright, circular globe is visible, showing some landmasses. The globe is set against a dark, textured background that resembles a human silhouette or a shadow. The overall effect is dramatic and somber.

I wonder
such a neat, perfect world, caution—
life is fragile,
fearing reality?
immersed in dreams,
illusions,
images,
rich in beauty, memories,
and people,
they surround me,
screaming, pulling, pushing
"be one of us."
we are life
we know what things are worth.

are they really?
secure, yet dying, and dead
a plastic emptiness rushing, running—faster—
package and sell it,
caution—
life is fragile.
one hand—two—
my voice.
what made my way of life?
who tells me how to think do I?
and then, a silent, shimmering deanne

TRACES

The door across the hall slammed, jarring me from my catatonic-like trance and back to the realm of Roman Civ. and Dr. Earp's impending final. J. B. was back from the gardens — a blanket under his arm and Stanyan Street & Other Sorrows in hand. It had been one of those typical days in May — hot, humid, and too tempting to resist. Spring had been early this year, bringing forth the sun-worshippers and garden-goers in ever increasing numbers. A few of us — fools that we were — languished in the dorm, trying to convince ourselves that scholastic pursuits really were more important.

"Hey, Stud!" J. B. appeared in the doorway, framed in the orange light which streamed in my window from the late afternoon sun.

"How could you possibly stay in this hole on a day like today?" I slammed my Roman Civ. text shut and threw it in his general direction. He dodged the missile and retreated to his room laughing.

At this point I decided I'd had enough of ancient Rome — final or no final. Slipping on my old, beat-up and only pair of sandals, I ambled down the three flights of stairs from third floor Ebird and out into the quad.

The air was cooler now; it promised to be a good night for crowds at the TOG and the law students' parking lot as well. I wandered down by the biology building and watched the wind play havoc with a lone airborne frisbee, its yellow crescent soaring above and beyond the reach of its inept launcher. Countless times I had wiled away my leisure hours playing catch with one. I could only chuckle to myself and wonder if I'd ever graduate knowing as much about Roman Civ. as I did about frisbees.

334 Walking a short distance farther, I found myself on the lower end of Faculty Drive. I remembered as a freshman the construction work going on constantly in that area. It reminded me of the night I wandered around lost in that God-forsaken mudhole looking for the freshman orientation mixer. The mixer was to have been held in the "Barn" — a building I had only the vaguest idea of how to find. For almost two hours I trudged through the mud and rain looking for the blasted place only to find when I arrived that the mixer had been moved to Salem.

I laughed aloud at the thought of my own foolishness.

The sun cast its parting rays over the landscape and disappeared from view. I looked at the red horizon and wondered what it was like in the tropics where there was no twilight.

Behind the houses on Faculty Drive was an area of recent construction. I walked past the newly erected houses and down to the small creek which flows silently through the wooded area. A water pipe, emerging from the hillside, spans the creek, and disappears again beneath the ground on the other side. I viewed the scene with nostalgia. It had been a little over a year ago on this very spot that I had taken her into my arms and told her for the first time that I loved her. The words had not been easy. My throat was tight, and my heart pounded. I had purposely waited to tell her how I felt until I was sure. I wanted her to know how very much I meant those words.

336 The breeze was moving in the treetops above me, and I walked down to the creek's edge. There, on the pipe, was the monument to my beautiful memory — a memorial painstakingly etched with a sharp rock while the hand of love guided me. It had been a beautiful spring — the long walks in the gardens together, the soft crunch of leaves underfoot, sunlight filtering through the boughs overhead with images of light and shadow dancing at our feet. We used to feed the ducks which inhabited the mudhole once known as Lake Katherine. Occasionally they would venture out of the water, and she would stroke their sleek heads. I enjoyed watching her at times like these; she had a certain way with animals. Her spirit was like the wind — sometimes fierce, often gentle, always free.

Twilight was fading and the rising moon hung like a pale gold pendant in the sky. I retraced my steps across Faculty Drive and walked across the lawn in front of Babcock dorm. The campus lights had come on, and I could hear laughter emitting from a nearby window. I thought of next year, and how the laughter and tears of college life would all too soon be memories.

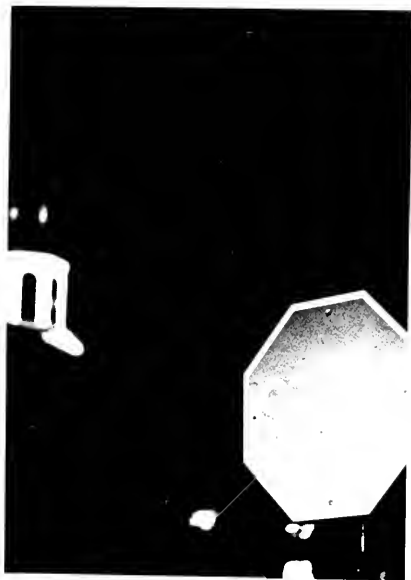

"Where have all the flowers gone, long time passing?" College — the prime of life and blossom of youth. I sang the old folk song softly to myself and fought back the tightening in my throat.

On impulse, I ran from Tribble Hall across the Magnolia Court, past the Business building and jogged the remaining distance to the water tower. It had always been an imposing sight to me, especially at night — like the colossus of Rhodes with a luminous red crown, guarding his sacred realm. I slipped over the partially torn fence and walked solemnly to the base of the structure. Being careful to avoid tripping the alarm, I climbed the spiral stairs rapidly, a sense of exhilaration increasing with every step. The view was spectacular, as it had always been. All of Winston-Salem and beyond stretched out before me. The Wachovia building was easily visible, along with the bleak silhouette of Groves Stadium. And there, in front of me, was Wake Forest University — my alma mater to-be.

It seemed smaller than it ever had before. The dark endless horizon enveloped it like a blanket and threatened to all but snuff-out the twinkling lights below me, which had been my home for the last four years. It had been a huge place then — the very sight of the massive chapel spire had awed me as a freshman. Where had it gone? Where was the mystique, the glamour, the excitement of Wake Forest College, September, 1966?

The night wind whistled through the tower railing as I stared at the campus before me — it still looked the same. In the solitude of that brief moment I realized the answer. A faint smile crossed my face, and I began to make my way down the tower steps. The greatest revolution of my life had ended — “not with a bang but a whimper.”²⁸
